- Seals or stamps having some other form
- Seals or stamps with representations of heavenly bodies or natural phenomena
- Surfaces or backgrounds covered wtih rays or radiating lines
- Rectangles
- One quadrilateral
- Letters or numerals forming geometrical figures, written or typographical matter in perspective
- Letters or numerals forming a figure in the shape of an arc of a circle

Certification Mark Text

The certification mark is intended to certify that prescription and non-prescription sunglasses comply with standards related to total solar protective value, including frame coverage and ultraviolet light, and that the goods have successfully been tested based upon those standards. To be EPF certified, the sunglasses are evaluated, as follows: A) The lenses are assessed for their weighted UV transmittance. Weighted simply means that the relative retinal toxicity level for each part of the UV spectrum is taken into account. In other words, if a lens transmits 3% of the UV spectrum (blocks 97%), depending on which part of the UV spectrum is transmitted, the percentage may go higher or lower than 97%. Generally, the shorter wavelength UV rays are more toxic than the longer UV rays, so they would count more. B) The amount of light that reaches the eye on a standardized mannequin head with the sunglasses on and the lenses opacified is measured. In other words, all of the light coming around the frame and lens that still reaches the eye is calculated . C) The weighted percentage of UV that is blocked by the lens and the percentage of light that is blocked by the frame/lens combination is averaged. If the number is equal to or greater than 95%, the product is EPF certified. If it is less than 95%, it is not certified.

Colour Claim

Colour is claimed as a feature of the trade-mark. The circle containing lines pointing out from the centre is in yellow. The words LAB TESTED MAXIMUM UV PROTECTION in the circular band inside a gold circular border consisting of gold triangles are in black. The literal elements EPF above the band containing the word CERTIFIED are in black. The band containing the word CERTIFIED is in gold. The word CERTIFIED is in black.
